

Faculty Development Programme on Promotion of Agri Entrepreneurship

Rationale: Development of the rural economy has been one of the prime concerns for Government of India. Despite the sincere efforts, the problems of poverty, unemployment, drudgery and migration still exist in rural economy. There is a need to address these problems by creating employment opportunities in the rural areas and this could be done by setting up of small agri based enterprises. Agricultural activities besides being essential for our survival, benefit a large portion of our people, including poor and marginalized rural populations. More than 50 % of the population is still dependent on agriculture. There are ample scope for innovation, value addition and entrepreneurship development in this sector. This is possible chiefly by skill up-gradation, mentoring and training. The ni-msme provides entrepreneurial competence, capacity-building for faculties to promote agriculture based enterprises in their respective academic institutions.
